*The Community Alliance for Youth of Clark County has developed standards for working with children and youth based on best practices. If your ministry works with children and youth, please include at least one quality standard as an objective for this coming year. The Quality Standards checklist is available on-line at http://communityallianceforyouth.org/images/ccue/Quality-Standards\_Documents\_Final\_February29.pdf.

6) The Nehemiah Foundation funds and supports Christian non-profits that help people become fully committed followers of Jesus Christ. How does your organization encourage spiritual growth in people?

7) Are you aware of other organizations working with similar populations and programs? If so, how do your objectives, deliverables, outputs and outcomes compare to theirs? Please document any published research or case studies of “best practices” for organizations like yours?

8) Identify how your organization has built infrastructure in the past year (e.g. board development, staff training, broader/deeper funding, collaboration, etc.). Do these changes enhance your organization (e.g. more effective, self-sustaining? Etc.)

9) Identify churches that contributed funds, volunteers or resources to your organization last year. How does that compare to previous years?

10) Has your organization collaborated or partnered with other community organizations in the past year? If so, describe outcomes (positive or negative).
